

Happy Being Magnificent
video playbook #1
by Ian Berry

What you hear me say is important, yet nowhere near as important as what you hear yourself say to yourself, who you become, and what you do next.

Prologue

For over thirty years my main work was as a professional speaker, supported through mentoring and peer groups.

I've been in the room with more than a million people in over 40 countries.

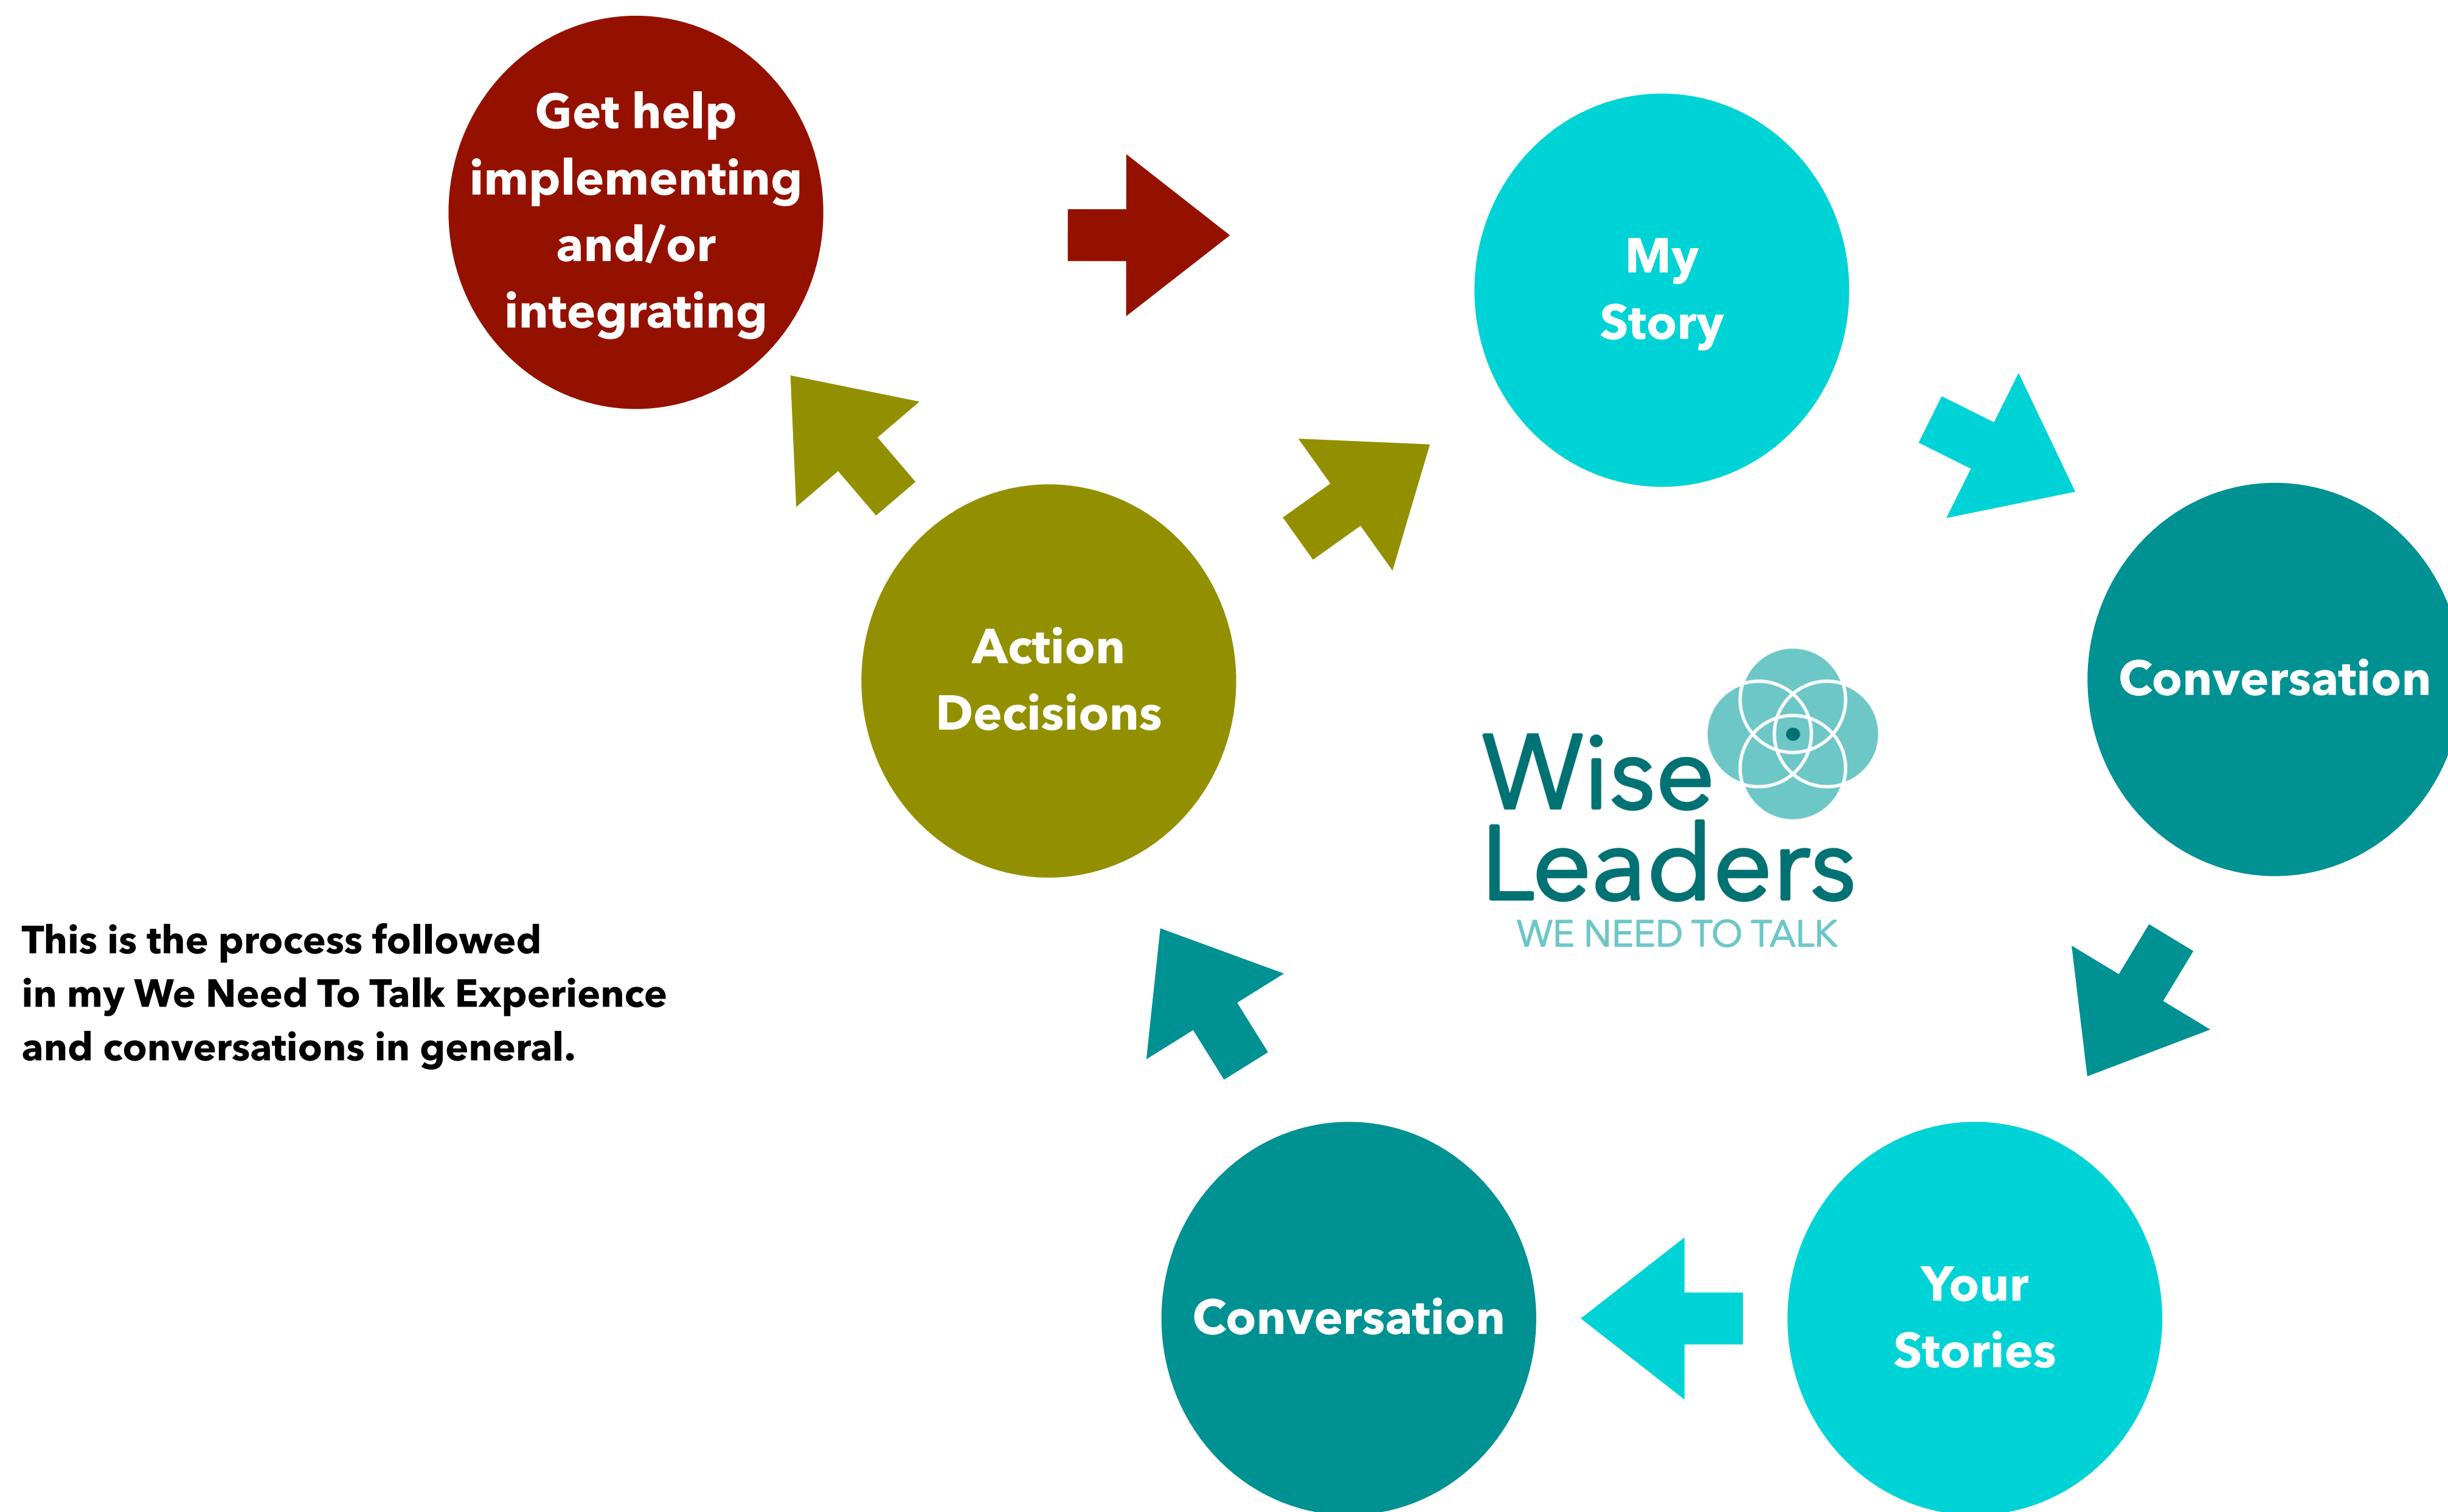

Since 2012 I've focused my work on peer groups, mentoring and conversations with small groups of people rather than presentations to large groups of people.

Through both presentations and conversations I've met, broadly speaking and from a disposition perspective, three kinds of people: the happy being miserable, the happy being mediocre, and the happy being magnificent.

This video playbook presents for the first time, my trilogy of stories about these people.

My desire is that these stories will inspire and encourage you to co-create cohorts, communities and cultures where the majority of people are happy being magnificent.

The process on the next page may help you. This process is demonstrated in videos one and two.
